The Turn A Frown Around Foundation, or TAFE, is a non-profit with a mission to assist those living with psychiatric and physical disabilities who have lost hope—or feel isolated and friendless, by linking them with a “forever friend” network. TAFE reaches out to isolated individuals to help them attain a sense of hope and well-being through the affirmation and recognition of caring others.

A staggering 50% of nursing home residents and 75% of mental hospital patients will be without a friend. TAFE aims to change those statistics by bringing love, laughter, and a listening ear to the lonely and isolated in nursing homes, mental hospitals, children’s homes, etc.

What does TAFE do?

Led by “motivational and inspirational comic and clown” Drew Horn, TAFE activities include:

- personal visits & being a forever friend
- phone buddies
- emails to the lonely
- motivational comedy
- skits
- songs
- performances that showcase the talents of volunteers

Volunteers are people with and without disabilities. As they visit lonely people, volunteers build a sense of purpose and value for themselves, as well as the people they visit. Often, those visited become volunteer visitors themselves.

The TAFE story:

After three failed businesses, two failed marriages, and two failed suicide attempts, laughter and unconditional love saved Drew Horn’s life and now he is trying to bring the same salvation to others. Drew is a motivational, inspirational comic and clown.” In order to keep a promise to his daughter that he would never attempt suicide again, Drew began to pursue Compassion Comedy and it gave him a reason to get up each morning. Eventually Drew realized he wanted to do more than entertain - he wanted to bring forever friends to individuals isolated either by living in an institution or by their disabilities. They need a forever friend. Everyone deserves a friend.

TAFE was founded in 2001 by Drew and Dr. Gregory Ervin, a pharmacologist with a PhD in neurobiology. Both men have a passion to help disabled people become empowered and realize they can take charge of their lives.

“So much of what is involved is simply love,” says Gregory. “People with severe problems are unable to love themselves... and people around them are unable to love them enough. Our vision is this can change. We can help bring the love and promote healing.”
